Robyn went above and beyond to incorporate myths and perceptions of Appalachian culture as it pertains to health care and specifically the work of our project. We have had numerous team members share their appreciation of Robyn's presentation. We would be ecstatic to have her back to continue diving deeper into Appalachian culture.

Cultural humility is vital in working with all populations. I hired Robyn to customize a presentation for the specific population my organization works with in rural Appalachia. Robyn was able to deliver a product that reached deeply into the structures and environment that has affected this community for decades. This was vital in the important work of empathy building with staff. I recommend Robyn's services to anyone who wants their staff to take a deeper and broader look at patient's culture and how it influences their attitudes and decision making.
